Life In the Abysses of the Ocean - By Garrett P. Serviss

Strange Creatures That Furnish Own Light and Are Killed If They Leave the Depths

lution, they had lost all but the most essential marks of kinship with their relatives whom they had left in the brighter waters above.
And thus originated the strange population of the deep sea, which sees nothing of the upper world except the lifeless remains that sink slowly down into the depths. Occasionally the wreck of a ship comes down, and continually there is a descending rain of little animals called protozoa, which have perished above, but are preserved from decay in the pure water, and furnish a large part of the food of the inhabitants of the abysses. The remaining of sea vegetation likewise sink down from the surface waters, and add to the food supply. But these sunless creatures also feed upon one another, thus initiating their abandoned relatives above. The carnivorous character of some of the deep sea animals proves that the tragedy of the struggle for existence continues in the submarine night.

At a depth of 2500 fathoms (nearly three miles) the pressure of the water amounts to about two and a half tons to the square inch. The animals that live amid such pressure have small, soft, yielding bones, and a physical constitution fitting them to their environment. They cannot safely venture far out of their usual haunts, in pursuit of their prey, they make an unlucky rush upwards, and go too far, they lose control of themselves, the gases expand in their air-ladders and they are hurled on, higher and higher, like runaway balloons.

New Scientific Corn Remover

Best, Sanest, Safest, Quickest!

Say goodbye to every touchy, torturing, crippling corn and bunion—every distressing disfigurement, foot-enlarging callosity! There's a new and quick way—safe and safe way—to completely rid yourself of all such pesky, troublesome things.
"BINGO"—that's the new marvel! "Bingo" is the fruit of master scientific minds, tireless laboratory research and experience. Put "Bingo" on it—say—put it on—just the thing that corns, blisters, and you pick out the whole blameworthy thing—body, seed, root and all—so easily, painlessly, you can "Bingo" them. "Bingo" No cutting—no bleeding—no blood poisoning! No injury to healthy flesh! No sticky cotton balls! None of the usual annoyances.
Buy "Bingo" at your druggist's—50¢—or, if he hasn't it, send in 50¢ to Dominion Pharmaceutical Co., 111 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Clark-Vance Wedding Is One Of Season's Most Brilliant Events

MISS FRANCES LEIGH CLARK became the bride of Dr. James Vance Wednesday night, the ceremony being performed at the Episcopal church of St. Clement by the rector, Rev. Henry Basford, before an assemblage that taxed the capacity of the church. The decorations were carried out in a color plan of pink, green and white, and were arranged most artistically. The altar was ablaze with candles, a seven branch candelabra being on each side of the cross, and one on the reredos above. Between these were many single candles, all in brass sticks with brass bases of white sweet peas. The flowers arranged in wide spray effect. Palms and potted ferns, placed by the choir stalls, formed an aisle of green. Banded about the chancel steps and beyond the pulpit and lectern.

Parvin Witte sang "I Adore Thee" and "Last Night," and preceding the entrance of the bride party the organist, Kenneth MacCallum, played Macdowell's "To a Wild Rose."

The bride party entered to the wedding march from Wagner's "Lohengrin." First came the ushers, two abreast, Darnett King, Charles N. Bassett, Vance Stewart and Tom Newman. Then came the bridesmaids, Misses Anne Lee, Hilda Sauer, Staro Smith, Gladys ret Bryan, Margaret Albertos, Beulah Bryan, Alice Miles, Marion Young, Sarah Bridges, Mary Leighton, Isabel Springer, Mary Robertson, Gladys Strickland, Pauline Bryan, Frances Jenkins, Ann Magoffin and Mrs. William Wain.

The bride, wearing a gown of white tulle, surrounded by a black veil, and a long net sleeve, was escorted by a tall, dark, blue rep coat suit, the coat was finished with a white collar, trimmed with raspberry colored embroidery. The embroidery was repeated on the sleeves and skirt. Pearl buttons trimmed the suit. With the suit, a black straw hat, model was worn.

The couple received a lavish number of handsome wedding presents. A quartet consisting of Mrs. E. V. Berrien, Mrs. Joe M. Dunne, Miss Ethel Howard and Miss Eleanor Roman sang the bridal chorus from Wagner's "Lohengrin" as the bride party entered the church.

Little Agnes Morgan, the niece of the bride, was the first to enter. She wore a white embroidered dress, with a white wreath upon her head, and carried a small bouquet of pink and white carnations.

The bride wore a gown of white net over tulle, trimmed with lace ornaments over the bodice and sleeves, and with bows of satin ribbon. A pearl necklace was about her neck. Her bouquet was fastened with a wreath of lilies of the valley, and she carried an arm bouquet of white roses.

The bride was given away by her brother, T. C. McCarthy. H. N. Ryan was the best man.

During the mass, Mrs. Joe M. Dunne and Miss Eleanor Roman sang a duet, "Holy Mother guard their footsteps," Miss Ethel Howard sang "Ave Maria" and Mrs. E. V. Berrien and Miss Ethel Howard sang "Oh Salutaris." Mrs. E. V. Berrien was the organist.

A wedding breakfast for a few of the couples' intimate friends was served at the home of the bride's sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morgan, 115 North Campbell street. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Ryan, Miss Maggie Condon, Miss Loretta Lyons, Frank

Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

The reception was given at the lovely Spanish mission home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Williams, 217 West 1st. The bride and groom were seated at the head of the table, which was decorated in white. From the crystal pendant-fringed chandelier, streamers of white tulle extended to the four corners of the table where they ended in big butterfly bows, tying bouquets of white sweet peas. REV. MORGAN TELLS ABOUT "PLANT JUICE"

One of Hundreds of South Texas Citizens Who Have Made Test of It—Demonstrations Continue.

Among the many interesting and glowing letters on the subject of "Plant Juice" that have been written in the last three weeks from people in and around Houston are a number from that noble profession—the clergy. One of these just received and with permission to publish is from Rev. Frank H. Morgan, an Episcopalian minister stationed at South Houston. It follows: Colonel Frank A. Dillingham, Dear Sir: It affords me the greatest pleasure to recommend your "Plant Juice" to all suffering from indigestion and general debility. I have taken one bottle of it and it has benefited me most wonderfully. It has helped my nervous system, practically cured me of insomnia and in fact I feel better than I have in many months. Gratefully yours, (Rev.) Frank H. Morgan.

Box 41, South Houston. There is no class to whom this great new vegetable tonic appeals with more force than to the clergy. Many of them undergo severe nervous strain, both physically and mentally, and are quite sufferers of that world-wide complaint—nervous debility. They find themselves at times depressed in spirit, lacking in vitality, dull, morose and listless. Twenty-five percent of our city people, due to modern ways of living, suffer in this way. They have indigestion, poor appetites, coated tongues, foul breath, bad taste of morning, heartburn, flatulence, water-brash and like ills. Their kidneys and liver become affected, their skin yellow, blotched and with pimples and boils, their blood is sluggish, have pains in the back and limbs and touches of rheumatism. Some suffer with numbness and cold feet, all ailments, spots before the eyes and they are prone to imagine themselves afflicted with "nerves." "Plant Juice" will do what it has for hundreds of other Houston and Texas citizens—it will give quick relief and bring a permanent cure. From the start you will feel new strength, new vitality and will note your old troubles slipping away from you.

It is purely a vegetable tonic, brewed from the herbs, roots, foliage and flowers of plants of the plain, hill and forest. It is a rare combination that it took years to perfect. I list Oregon St., this week and witness the "Plant Juice" demonstrations. When you get a bottle, it will be accompanied with a positive guarantee that it will do for you all that is claimed for it.
